

Name: _____

Practice combining compound subjects using the sentences below.

Lisa eats cherries. Paula eats cherries.

Jacob rides the bus to work.
Penny rides the bus to work.

Remember!
A noun is a person place or thing.
A verb is a word that tells us what someone is doing.

There are bears at the zoo.
There are lions at the zoo.

Name: _____

Practice combining compound subjects using the sentences below.

Jess saw the girls. I saw the girls.

The boys ran. The girls ran.

Maybe James will open the door.

Maybe Nate will open the door.

Remember!
Use these words to combine
sentences:
"and" "or"

Name: _____

Practice combining compound predicates using the sentences below.

I went to the park Tuesday.
I ate a sandwich under a tree.

She saw a cat run in front of her. She fell down.

Fun fact:
Words that combine sentences
like "and" are called conjunctions.

He wanted to buy a dog. He wanted to name it Max..

Name: _____

Practice combining compound predicates using the sentences below.

Let's go to the fair. Let's ride an elephant.

You can make a big poster.
You can draw a picture on it.

Remember!
The subject is the noun!
The predicate is what they are doing.

I'm going to eat. I'm going to drink.

Name: _____

Underline the compound subject sentences in green and the compound predicate sentences in blue.

Tim or Don will pick up the groceries.

I will dance and sing at the event.

Peter and Gary met us at the station.

Either Blueberries or strawberries will be available.

The park or the beach are good places to have a picnic.

He cooked and cleaned all afternoon.

Radishes and garlic grow well in moist soil.

Neither spaghetti nor meatloaf are on the menu tonight.

They laughed and smiled at the performer.

Vanilla ice cream and apple pie taste good together.

Jane stopped and stared at the sky.

Neither the cat nor the dog ate those tomatoes.